In Loving Memory

we gather today, To honor a man who brightened our way. With a heart so kind and a soul so pure, His generosity and care will forever endure. A husband, a brother, a friend so dear, His presence brought joy, wiping away every tear. Through his acts of love, he touched many lives, Leaving a legacy that forever survives. Though he's no longer with us, his spirit lives on, In the memories we hold, even when he's gone. May his soul find solace in eternal light, As we say goodbye, embracing love's might....

-Alisha Edwards Villagomez

From Your Queen To My King

Life is a great word but it can also be a curse word, let me explain. From the moment we are born they teach us about life they tell us we can be anything we want to be, they say live, love and laugh but what they neglect to teach us is how to live after life is no longer life and you question yourself, did we live where we loving and did we laugh enough. So now the brain is talking to the heart, the body is in pain like being hit by a train to only think is today the last day, did we live, love and laugh. You see we are having conversations but there is no home for the land of the living.

In the land of the dead we only have memories, so I find myself saying things like "I" instead of "We", "Me" instead of "Us". We love hard, but that's why we can't say goodbye, we laugh loudly, that's why the silence is scary and we live just to be taken on a random day at a random time and now I'm stuck here with the memories that keep me going because your love for me was like the Red Sea, your laughter kept me warm and the life we lived gives me hope for tomorrow. You know they say "when a man finds a wife he finds a good thing", but no one talks about when a woman finds a man she finds a protector, a provider, a best friend and more. It's hard to say goodbye but it's never till death do us part but always till death brings us closer. I will see you again and another time on a different day to only live, love and laugh again, my husband and my friend, im yours and you are mine forever until another time you were and will forever be mine so rest my love. I'll be fine and yes, I cry but not because you are gone but because I'm now alone as the sun goes down and the moon rises I'll live for the both of us until God calls me home and I'm no longer alone. I will run into your arms and say smile baby remember I told you it's always Rissa and Row until the world blow, so you rest get yo sleep cuz when I come home it will be so sweet because I'll get to hear your heartbeat forever, I am yours as you are mine. I will learn how to live, love and laugh. It just sucks cuz you're not by my side but in moments of weakness I will cry maybe even scream but, in those moments, I'll be ok because I know you're watching over me. I love you my friend, my man and my husband save me seat until than my love.

REST IN PEACE

- Your Wife, Cherissa
