My Father would always say his living the "Thug Life" and come from the school of Hard Knox. He's been through hell and back but always come out strong like none of his previous situations affected him. Most people don't make it out with their heads still on their shoulders and intact. He was many things to many people and which a way reach many of people. For example, he was a protector, a father lover, giver, role model, etc. He was hated by many but loved by most and could care less how anyone felt about him.
