

In the hush of twilight's gentle sigh,
Where shadows blend and day bids goodbye,
We gather 'round, hearts heavy, eyes awry,
To honor a soul, our dear Ivory, now in the sky.

He walked among us with a light so bright,
A beacon of love, in the darkest night.
His laughter, a melody, pure and right,
A balm to our wounds, easing our plight.

In every heart, he planted a seed,
Of kindness, compassion, an unselfish deed.
A friend to the lost, to those in need,
Ivory's legacy, a powerful creed.

Though now he sails on celestial seas,
Beyond the touch of the earthly breeze,
His spirit lingers, in the rustle of leaves,
In the whisper of wind, in the quiet, he weaves.

Let not your hearts drown in despair,
For Ivory's essence is everywhere.
In memories sweet, in moments we share,
In love that binds us, a precious affair.

We'll raise our voices, in songs to sing,
Of the joy and the laughter, he used to bring.
In the garden of life, he's now taking wing,
A beautiful soul, in eternal spring.

To his family, friends, those he held dear,
Let's hold each other, keep his memory near.
In each tear we shed, in every fear,
Remember, Ivory's love will always be here.

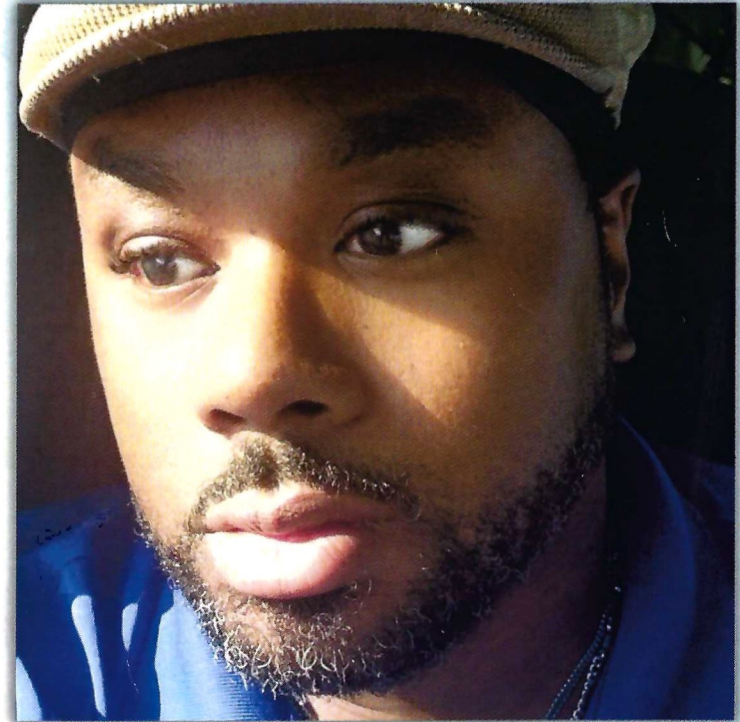

So let us part, with a promise to keep,
To cherish his legacy, in our hearts, deep.
For in love, we never truly lose, nor weep,
In the fabric of time, it's Ivory we'll reap.

Farewell, dear Ivory, till we meet again,
In the realm of forever, where love knows no end.
Your journey's just begun, around the bend,
In the hearts of us all, your spirit will blend.
